BEING REAL NEIGHBORLY—When Israel Stolzfus' barn burned down at Kirkwild, Pa., the workings of an age-old Amish tradition went into operation. More than 100 men—neighbors, relatives and friends—showed up. And, in one day up went a new barn with scores of men swarming over the new construction to do the job without pay. The Amish have been doing it for years and sum it up in Pennsylvania Dutch with the expression: "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours."

Foreign Aid Bill Before Congress

Leaders Hoping for Adjournment Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders said today they hope to wind up the 85th congress tonight. But they conceded talkative senators or Senate-House disagreements could delay adjournment to next week.

The House had its decks pretty well cleared but still had to act on various measures after the Senate gets through with them.

Most likely time-consumer was the 3½ billion dollar foreign aid measure. The Senate Appropriations Committee, under the urging of President Eisenhower, has added 440 million dollars slashed out previously by the House.

Also waiting was a bill carrying more than six billion dollars of operating funds for various federal agencies. The Senate Appropriations Committee added more than 100 million dollars to this Friday on late budget requests from Eisenhower.

Must Go to House

Even when these clear the Senate they must go back to the House for votes on the changes before they can go to the President.

Sen. George A. Malone (R-Nev.), who stalled Senate action for two hours with a speech Friday night at the end of 14½ hour session, planned to resume his marathon talking again today.

And Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), veteran critic of foreign aid spending, was waiting with a two-hour speech urging reductions.

Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told newsmen he doubted that the country was much interested in just what hour, day or week the Congress completes its work.

Chances Touch and Go

Republican Senate Leader William F. Knowland of California, anxious to fly home for his gubernatorial campaign, said chances of finishing the session tonight were touch and go.

Along with a score of Senate-House compromises on a variety of bills, Johnson also planned Senate action on a controversial measure to allow Chicago to divert water from the Great Lakes.

Michigan senators were pushing it but senators from neighboring Great Lakes states were determined to block Senate action if possible.

This debate should provide time for the Senate-House conference operations.

Items awaiting action included legislation dealing with the national debt limit, federal aid to education, renegotiation of government defense contracts, benefit pay-

Motorist Is Fined Following Accident

Charles Grauwinkel, 46, of Philadelphia, Pa., was fined $10 and costs Friday night by Mayor Harold Smith for reckless operation following a collision at 7:05 p.m. on the Benton Rd.

Police said Grauwinkel attempted to pass a farm truck operated by Robert A. McCracken, 45, of RD 1, Salem, but had to cut back because of oncoming traffic and struck the left front fender of the truck, just north of W. State St.

Grauwinkel was treated for shock at Central Clinic after the accident.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The strike of elevator workers which has shut down grain-handling plants here and at the major terminals on Lake Superior poses the threat of tremendous losses.

Many States Report Odd Autumn Chills

By The Associated Press
An autumn-like chill nipped a broad stretch of the country from the northern Plains to New England today while the South basked in hot and mostly humid weather.

Thundershowers dampened scattered sections of the midcontinent and the Deep South.

Temperatures in the 50s and 60s were common from Kansas and Virginia northward, with a few 40-degree readings in the northern Great Lakes region.

Across the Southland, temperatures ranged from the 90 and 100-degree levels in the desert South west to the 80s eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Readings in the 70s were general along coastal sections of the far West, and the forecast indicated another day of 90-degree temperatures for the Pacific Northwest.

There were widespread but light showers over the Rockies and central Plains. Scattered thundershowers across the Mississippi Valley and light drizzle along coastal sections of the Pacific Northwest completed the rain pattern.

The damp picture in the upper Mississippi Valley was expected to spread into the western Great Lakes and the mid-Mississippi Valley during the day. Scattered thundershowers also were on tap for the Rockies and in the Southern tier of states from Arizona eastward to the Atlantic.

$150 Is Taken At Drive-In Theater

About $150 in small change was taken from a filing cabinet at the Salem Drive-In Theatre, 2401 E. State St., when the theatre's office was broken into early this morning.

Adam Mickum the manager, reported the theater closed at 2:00 a.m. and the breaking and entering was discovered at 7:30 p.m. by Nelson Mellinger of RD 3, Salem, a janitor at the theatre.

Mr. Mickum said that glass in a window to the concession building was broken, indicating that vandals must have entered and left the office through the window.

Besides taking the change, which was mostly in nickels, dimes, quarters, and halves, the thief or thieves damaged some of the theatre's business records, and broke photographs belonging to a private collection. Mr. Mickum said. Sheriff's deputies investigated.

Commission Merchants Assn. said in a special advisory Friday night. "This action by the labor chiefs to shut off vital arteries of grain movement results in as large a loss as possible to farmer and shippers because of the harvest pressure that now exists."

A complete embargo on grain shipments was established by railroads serving Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., where 2,300 loaded cars already were at the docks.

Another 2,000 awaited unloading in Minneapolis when the American Federation of Grain Millers pulled some 300 members of Local 182 off their grain-handling jobs in support of wage demands.

Elevators Bulging

With country elevators bulging from record harvest, there was no place farmers could take their grain. Combine crews still were ranging fields in the vast Minnesota-Dakota wheat country, and commission men said growers probably would have to dump the grain on the ground and take a chance on the elements unless the walkout is ended soon.

Shipping activity was reported halted at Bismarck, N. D., where local storage is filled beyond 90 per cent capacity. The situation was blamed for a three-cent drop in wheat prices.

Pay Boosts Sought

Union spokesmen said hourly pay boosts of from 15 to 22 cents are sought against a management offer of 10 cents. Grain shovelers, largest group in the local, now get $2.18 per hour.

In Duluth-Superior the union is asking 18 cents an hour increase on a scale of pay ranging from $2.07-$2.47. There, too, elevator

Edison, City In Accord On Pole Contract

Ohio Edison Company's version of a new light pole agreement between the city and the utility was presented at a meeting of City Council's street lighting committee Friday night.

Glenn Harding, local Edison manager, met with the committee and submitted a draft of the utility's standard pole agreement which was taken under advisement by City solicitor James Primm.

Councilman Donald Cannon, chairman of the street lighting committee, said there was a "general feeling of acceptance of the new agreement by city officials" with the exception of several minor technicalities that the city would like incorporated into the agreement.

Mr. Cannon said that when an agreement is reached between the two parties, it will replace the 1933 agreement. The major change being added to the new agree-

Whittaker May Rule Alone

NAACP Is Awaiting Integration Answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Whittaker may hold the answer to whether racial integration must be resumed at Little Rock's Central High School when it reopens Sept. 2.

But the answer will not come before next Thursday, probably later.

It was uncertain whether Whittaker would rule alone, or with other members of the nine-man court.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People Friday asked Whittaker for an order removing all legal barriers to immediate re-entry of Negro pupils into Central High, a focal point in the far-ranging integration controversy.

Set Aside Court Order

The NAACP action seeks, in part, to set aside an order of the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis that would delay integration at the Arkansas high school until the Supreme Court has ruled on the main issues in the case.

The petition was directed to Whittaker because the full court is in summer recess, until Oct. 6, and he has jurisdiction over the

Chief Executive Calls for U.N. Nuclear Talks

Soviets Asked to Continue 4½-Month
Halt of Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials predicted today Russia probably will accept President Eisenhower's proposal to start negotiations Oct. 31 on a world-wide system to prevent sneak nuclear weapons tests.

Eisenhower offered Friday to suspend U.S. nuclear tests for at least one year, provided such negotiations got under way.

His only other condition was that Russia continue its 4½-month-old halt in Soviet tests. The Russians announced the halt after completing a test series.

Called for Talks

In a statement and a note to the Kremlin, Eisenhower called for talks in New York under United Nations auspices. Results would be reported through Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to the U.N. General Assembly and the Security Council.

In Russia, radio Moscow and the Tass news agency reported Eisenhower's proposal without comment. There was no comment from Soviet officials.

In Congress, both Republicans and Democrats voiced praise for the offer.

But Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) objected strongly to a part of the Eisenhower statement that left the way open for resumption of tests unless, among other things, there was satisfactory progress toward disarmament. Holifield said such a condition could kill the plan.

Based on Results

U.S. officials said their expectation of Soviet acceptance was based primarily on results of a seven-week Geneva meeting of scientists from the United States, Russia and six other countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The scientists agreed it was technically possible to create a worldwide system of inspection stations, reportedly about 180, to make sure nobody cheated on any agreement to ban nuclear tests.

Britain also offered to suspend its tests after a projected series is completed this fall, and to participate in detailed diplomatic talks to set up the monitoring system conceived by the scientists at Geneva.

It was learned authoritatively that this was the thinking behind the Eisenhower proposal.

An end to nuclear tests is no disarmament measure in itself. But it may provide an opening wedge to achieve genuine disarmament, Eisenhower said U.S. tests might be resumed after one year unless a monitoring system was ripening and unless there were prospects of agreement on such disarmament measures as a cutoff in nuclear production, reduction in atomic-hydrogen stockpiles and troop cutbacks.

Kennedy's Labor Bill Hits 'Stumbling Block'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress is about to quit, but the argument still goes on over who's to blame for the absence of any labor control legislation.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), co-sponsor of a Senate-passed labor bill killed by the House, said Friday "the chief stumbling block to labor reform legislation in this Congress has been Secretary (of Labor) Mitchell."

Friday night, Mitchell came back with a statement saying that "if any 'stumbling block' need be sought, I suggest to Sen. Kennedy that he look to the Democratic House leadership."

The labor secretary said he urged the House to make what he called needed improvements in the Senate bill, but that the measure "rested in the hands of the Democratic leadership in the House 40 long days."

Nuclear Controversy Continues

Norway Preparing Welcome for 'Skate'

BERGEN, Norway (AP)—Norway's second-largest city prepared a hearty welcome today for the USS Skate amid foreign controversy on whether nuclear-powered vessels are safe in heavily populated areas.

Britain joined Denmark in saying they should be kept away from large cities because a collision or similar accident might endanger the populations.

But the man who built the only atomic submarines afloat, U.S. Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, said they are designed to avoid all possible accidents, including collisions.

The argument was started by Denmark Thursday. It refused to let the Skate visit Copenhagen for fear of a collision or similar accident.

The seafaring Norwegians, who are working on an atomic-powered cargo ship, lined up an army band and a navy detachment on the dock to greet the Skate on its first landing after poking around in the ice under the North Pole.

Both Defense Minister Nils H. Andenæs and the navy chief, Adm. P. J. E. Jacobsen, planned to come up from Oslo for the occasion.

After calling at this west coast fishing and shipping center, the Skate is scheduled to visit Oslo, Norway's capital and largest city, for two days.

Band Fund $4,520 After McCulloch Wets Feet for $265

R. S. McCulloch Sr., garbed in a Scottish tartan and cap, and carrying a crooked walking stick, waded into the "wishing well" at Timberlanes last night and scooped up $265.83 which Jim Fitzpatrick, Timberlanes owner, offered to donate to the American Legion Band fund.

This figure now brings the band fund total to $4,520.57. Norman Eckfeld, president of the Quaker City Band, is hopeful that the full $5,000 will be obtained by Monday which will send Salem's American Legion band on to national competition in Chicago over Labor Day weekend.

Mr. McCulloch was musically escorted from his store at 9 p.m. to Timberlanes by six members of the "Dutch Band." Fred and Walter Krauss, Glen and Bill Jackson, Dan Holloway, and Dr. Wade McGhee, who also play with the Legion Band.

Also attending the party were Mayor and Mrs. Harold Smith, Chester Brautigan, director of the band, Bill Schaeffer, manager, Mr. Eckfeld, president, along with many members of the band, their wives, and interested spectators.

Mr. Eckfeld said that persons still desiring to help the band can leave or send their contributions to the Home Savings and Loan Co., office or to either National bank.

GENESIS 3:9 — "...the Lord God called to the man, and said to him, 'Where are you?' (RSV)

After Adam and Eve had disobeyed God by eating the fruit, they hid from Him. But God came looking for them in the garden. The principle message of this passage for us is that God searches for men even though they may run away from him and hide. This is the marvelous thing about God's love. He does not give us up or let us go even though we disobey or sin against him. He stays after us until finally, when we are exhausted and spent, we meet Him in the person of Jesus Christ. The cross symbolizes the end of our flight. There is no place where we can hide from the love of Calvary. No place we can go where this great love does not follow us. Men today are still hiding from God, but if you will listen carefully you can still hear God's voice calling, "Where are you?"

The True Quality of Wisdom

When the Queen of Sheba visited King Solomon, the one thing which impressed her most was the eagerness of his people to be near him, and serve him.

The Queen was impressed, of course, with Solomon's wealth, with his luxurious temple, his personal power and the prestige and influence of his kingdom. This is what she had come to see.

But the one thing which she carried away as a lasting impression was the quality in the man that brought from his subjects an eagerness, an enthusiasm, a loyalty and a faithfulness in their service to him.

"Happy are thy men," she said to him. "Happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom."

THE QUEEN attributed this situation to Solomon's great wisdom. But, to appreciate what she had in mind, we need to define wisdom, what it truly is, how it differs from being merely wise or smart, and we need to understand why Solomon's brand of wisdom had special appeal to his people.

Wisdom is the ability to judge soundly and deal sagaciously with facts, especially as they relate to life. Solomon had this ability. To be wise is something more. And to be merely wise means to be shrewd, calculating, crafty, subtle. Solomon had none of these traits.

A PERSON who is wise does not necessarily have wisdom, and one who possesses the true quality of wisdom does not resort to so-called wise practices.

Solomon's people stood continually before him, eager to serve him, because of his understanding of life, his ability to render sound judgment and deal knowingly with facts.

They were not subjected to shrewd maneuverings, subtle implications, crafty dealings and calculated moves. They were not victims of a sharp, devious operator.

They were happy to be near him because they got something really worthwhile out of being in his presence!

HAVE YOU EVER known a man who in this respect was like Solomon? Have you seen this same brand of wisdom in a boss, a parent, a pastor, a friend or acquaintance?

Have you made note how others are eager to be near him, anxious to serve him, reluctant to leave him? Have you observed the loyalty and devotion accorded him?

There are such men — and women — today. And their standing with their friends and associates has nothing to do with wealth, material gain, luxury or favor.

They are sought after because fairness and justice and honesty are fundamental with them. Their wisdom is founded on a whole-some respect for and understanding of life, and its problems.

A young man expressed it in quite a different way one time: "Let's stay at your house tonight," he said to his date, "and spend the evening with your Mother and Dad; they are so dear!"

Confident Living

A Formula for Solving Problems

"It's too bad," he man sitting next to me at the luncheon said, "that there isn't a simple formula for solving one's problems."

"Oh, but there is," I told him. "Well, I'd like to have it. Please give it to me," he replied doubtfully.

I told him to take the menu in front of him, turn it over to the blank side and write down the formula. "Number one," I began, "pray twenty-five times a day."

He looked at me in surprise. "I'm not where I can pray twenty-five times a day."

"It's not so hard. You can use fragments of time to say quick prayers. It's not necessary to stop everything to offer formal prayers. Pray when you get out of bed in the morning. Say a prayer at breakfast. Before you leave for work, have a brief prayer with your wife and family. Then, on your way down the street have a little talk with God On the bus you can sit there and pray."

WHEN YOU ARE going to write a letter, before you begin quietly think a sentence prayer that you may say the right thing. When you pick up the telephone, ask the Lord, under your breath, to help you say what's right. So go through the day with a series of such "flash" prayers. Add them up; and twenty-five times in the day you have prayed. Don't you think you can do that?"

"That's a new slant. Sounds sensible. I'll try it," he man said. "Next," I continued, "every night before going to bed, read a chapter from the Bible. I suggested that he read beginning with Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; then some of St. Paul's Epistles; and then, one by one, the Psalms. A chapter a night does wonders in reconditioning your thinking. I told him, because as you get into bed your mind becomes quiet, and what you read then will sink in and work in your mind while you are asleep."

HE HAD BEEN telling me earlier about how much money he wanted to make and I asked him, "How much are you giving to your church now?"

"I gave a dollar the last time I was there."

"When was that?"

"Easter," he said, in embarrassment.

I told him he had been coasting along quite some time on that one dollar and explained to him about the Old Testament law of tithing. The Bible says, if you tithe, blessings flow into your life. And that means giving ten per cent of your income to God's work.

He asked with a grin whether it wouldn't be all right if he settled for five per cent. But I told him it would have to be ten and that, moreover, he would have to start going to his church at least three Sundays each month.

Well, he wrote all this down, folded up the menu and put it in his pocket. "Tough formula," he remarked, "but I need something. Life's slipping on me."

A YEAR LATER I got a letter from him. He said that I had been right; what I had given him really worked. It was indeed a formula for solving all problems. "In fact," he wrote, "my problems no longer seem so difficult. I've got hold of new power, fresh insights."

He was particularly enthusiastic about the practice of praying twenty-five times a day and said it was the most wonderful thing that had ever come into his life. "I have come to believe," he wrote "that God is actually with me. And, as for reading the Bible one chapter a day, I never knew before, Doctor, what wonderful answers to my problems I could find in its pages."

This man had discovered an old truth. He had learned that a person can, with the Lord's help, solve all his own problems. And so, with the help of God, can you.

SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures by MARY BAKER EDDY

Most people would pray more if they felt they knew how, — and knew how prayer could really be effective. Many today feel that their own lives, and the world at large, sorely need help that human effort has not brought.

They see that somehow the answer to life's perplexing problems must be sought where power and intelligence have their limitless source — in the realm of God.

Today Science and Health is revealing a wholly new understanding of prayer, and meeting humanity's need.

Guarding Your Health

Questions and Answers

It is quite possible that the writer of today's first letter is taking some chances with the health of his family.

Q — A young couple from Europe visits us frequently. The parents of the wife died from tuberculosis. The husband has told us that his father also died of this disease long ago, and he himself coughs a great deal. I have a family with two children and my question is whether there is any danger to my children from these visits.

A — The germ of tuberculosis is acquired from someone who already has the disease. In this instance there seems to have been a history of tuberculosis, and while the man with the cough may be coughing for some other reason, one would certainly be suspicious. Exposure of your family and yourself to your friends might be hazardous unless you were assured, following thorough medical examination, that they were entirely free of tuberculosis.

Q — Is it harmful to use aluminum to cook in? I have been told that traces of aluminum have been found in our bodies in some illnesses and that aluminum should not be used for cooking food.

A — I usually receive several inquiries much like this every year. The subject of possible harm from aluminum cooking utensils has been thoroughly studied by competent scientists and no harm has been found to result. The overwhelming evidence points toward the safety of aluminum utensils in spite of claims to the contrary.

Q — Would you say something about Ludwig's angina?

A — This is an inflammation of the tissues of the floor of the mouth. Apparently several different kinds of germs can be responsible. It is sometimes the result of weakening of the body as the result of some other disease.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dilemma Without a Way Out

It is significant that the oldest member of the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner, 90, dissented from its ruling that school integration in Little Rock must go forward again this fall as originally ordered.

Like Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley, 74, who issued the order last June suspending integration in Little Rock for two and a-half years while tempers cooled off, Judge Gardner has reached an age when peace is likely to seem more important than the law.

This has become the integration issue in Southern states—the issue between those who want to allow time for everybody to cool off and those who hold that the law cannot be set aside, or watered down, or cooled off to suit those who have been angered by it.

Moreover, those who hold that the law must be administered and the authority of courts upheld regardless of the sensitivities of those who are at odds with it are sure in their own minds that nothing can cool off the animosity of anti-integrationists in the South. They do not intend to cool off—ever.

It is equally certain that nothing is going to cool off the animosity of the allies of the anti-integrationists in the North who are using the Little Rock episode to challenge and undercut the authority of the U.S. Supreme Court. They will not let go of a club that has been complicated by both politics and law. What would have been complex had it remained a question of educational practice has been complicated by both politics and law.

Those who think it can be settled by law must put faith in the authority of courts and the police power of the federal government.

Those who think it can be settled by the much slower process of social evolution must put faith in time and the ultimate good faith and good will of the people most closely involved in it—the Southern segregationists and the Southern Negroes.

There is a great chasm between integration and segregation. Its width and depth when he estimated it might take another when he estimated it might take another two and a-half years to bridge the gap in Little Rock.

The dismissal by five judges on a six-judge Court of Appeals of Judge Lemley's order, with the 90-year-old chief judge dissenting, guarantees that the issue will continue to be as hot as the tempers it has caused to explode. Education and the welfare of pupils in Little Rock's Central High School once more will be secondary to prejudice and anger in the school year that begins next month.

Unmourned Housing Bill

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Judge Howard Smith, chairman of the House Rules Committee, has saved American taxpayers several billion dollars during the course of this great spending session of Congress.

Never did his strategy prove what U.S. Housing Commissioner Albert M. Cole has called a "Billion and Three-Quarter Christmas Tree."

Despite prodding from scores of his Democratic colleagues and heated attacks in the pro-spending Washington press, Smith took his time with the bill before the Rules Committee and brought the measure down to the wire of adjournment, where a two-thirds majority of the House would be required to bring it to a vote.

The Eisenhower administration, which has been lavish in the business of housing at government expense, finally gagged at the monstrosity proposed by the "liberal" Democrats and passed by the Senate.

THE BILL proposed an additional 500 million dollars for the "special assistance" housing program and 500 million a year for two years for slum clearance grants.

It would have given 400 million for the construction of college dormitories and housing for student nurses and interns.

There were also slipped into the bill 250 million for college classroom and scientific laboratories. The latter item was the candy under the big tree—a gesture for spending based upon the Sputnik scare.

The bill would also have liberalized FHA down payments and other loan provisions. Finally, it would have provided an extra 100 million for housing for the aged. Thus, like most of the other omnibus measures that have characterized the proposals of this Congress, there were what former Secretary Folsom called "lures and baits" for everyone.

Clearing the measure was a flagrant bid for votes, conceived and rushed through the Senate without any real study of needs, of the possible effect upon prices paid by individuals struggling to build their own homes and colleges attempting to make ends meet with their own money. Inflation was written all over the measure.

THESE CONSEQUENCES were forcibly expressed by Commissioner Cole, who pointed out that "aside from hitting the taxpayer and adding further burdens to the Federal Treasury, it would disrupt the private housing market and open the door to another wave of inflation and higher costs these provisions are proposed when housing happens to be one of the healthiest parts of our economy."

The housing rate has risen to more than one million units a year, and shows every sign of continuing to maintain a high level. A group of the minority House Committee on Banking and Currency consisting of Republicans backing the administration's objections to the bill said:

"Three principles characterize this bill: 'If a lender or builder is concerned, liberalize; 'If the government is concerned, penalize; 'And if the typical consumer is concerned — well, he is all but the forgotten man.'"

Opposition to the bill consisted of an interesting coalition. There was the administration, which has sponsored a lot of housing and other spending but found this proposal too much. Then there were the conservatives of both parties in the House.

This alliance of strange bedfellows does not mean unity for life; but under the leadership of Rules Chairman Smith it sufficed to save us some money in taxes and much more in prices.

So They Say

Any attempt to establish the kingdom of God by means of the politicians of this world must fail. It is an attempt to make Messiahs, Christs, out of the politicians of this world.

—Nathan H. Knorr, Jehovah's Witnesses leader, condemning support of League of Nations and United Nations by organized Christianity.

First Atlantic Cable

By JERRY KLEIN

Placed In Service After Heartbreaking Defeats

Today more than 20 heavy cables provide constant communication between the United States and Europe and we think no more of the miracle of being able to telephone Paris than we do of calling the corner drugstore. Yet the Atlantic cable—whose 100th anniversary Friday, was marked with a new postage stamp placed in service only after a string of heartbreaking defeats.

The American industrialists, Cyrus W. Field eventually received a gold medal for laying the cable but all but forgotten are the many disappointments suffered before the task was finished.

The first official trans-Atlantic message was sent from Queen Victoria to President James Buchanan. But soon after it was transmitted, waer seeped through the cable's insulation, the telegraph signals faltered, then finally stopped.

When the telegraph line first was connected, Field had been hailed as "a modern Columbus." Now he was ridiculed as a "dreamer" and abused as a "fraud."

His enemies even claimed the cable had never actually worked and that the first transmissions had been faked. It was another disappointment for Field but he'd suffered many before—and had others yet to surmount.

At 5, young Cyrus had left home in Stockbridge, Mass. with $8 and the determination to "seek his fortune." In New York he became an errand boy in a dry goods store. The pay was $50 the first year; $100 the second.

SOON HE RETURNED to Massachusetts to enter the paper business. By the time he was 33 he had acquired $250,000 and was ready to enjoy an early retirement!

In a couple of years, however, Field met a Canadian engineer who was trying to build a telegraph line across Newfoundland to speed up delivery of news from Europe. That's when Field began thinking of a cable all the way from Newfoundland to England.

After consulting with such communications experts as Samuel F. B. Morse, Field got government approval and organized a $1,500,000 syndicate to lay a trans-Atlantic telegraph cable. Work was begun in 1857 but after laying the line several hundred miles westward from Ireland, the cable broke and some $500,000 of equipment fell to the bottom of the ocean.

On top of this blow, an economic recession struck America. Field was forced to put his paper and other business interests into bankruptcy.

In 1858 he reorganized the cable company and arranged for two ships to meet in mid-ocean, splice their lines together and start off in opposite directions with the cable—one toward Valentia, Ireland, the other toward Trinity Bay, Newfoundland. Again Field was to face defeat.

Three times the lines broke and were lost in the seas. Field was called a "fool," and there was talk of giving up the venture. But it was decided to make one more try—and this time the cable was laid successfully 1,950 miles in waters more than two miles deep.

NEW YORK HAD A "Cable Carnival" in "glorious recognition" of the most glorious work of the age. England guaranteed to send 14,000 Pounds (about $70,000) worth of government messages annually by the new cable and Queen Victoria regretted that "the rejection of all titles of nobility by the United States prevented her from conferring knighthood" on Cyrus W. Field.

In a few weeks, the cable broke down and the pioneer was ridiculed again. But in 1859 he raised more money for another cable, this time with better insulation.

Because of the Civil War, however, it wasn't until 1865 that the world's largest steamer, the Great Eastern, was hired to lay the heavier cable. When more than half its length was down, this line also broke.

Indomitable to the end, Field came back again in 1866 and this cable proved completely successful. Congress voted thanks to the father of the Atlantic cable and awarded him a gold medal—but "because of the stupidity of a government clerk," several years elapsed before he received it.

Meanwhile instead of profiting from his accomplishments, Field's fortune waned. Despite having had large financial and railroad interests, he became "a comparatively poor man through business reverses and unscrupulous partners" who themselves got rich at his expense. Nearing death at 72 Field found his telegraph and other investments almost gone.

As one biographer put it, the father of the Atlantic cable was "too visionary and chivalrous for a workaday world."

Another Reunion

By TRUMAN TWILL

As the family reunion date drew closer in this summer, the question was weather, for a change.

During the 79 years that our tribe has been rallying around fried chicken and potato salad to pay homage each August to the original feeling of "togetherness" in this country, good weather had been a safe assumption. In this part of the country, rain on the third Sunday of August doesn't happen often enough to worry about.

But this year . . .

Suddenly, the weather improved, and it was a certainty at daybreak the 80th reunion would be held under a blue sky. Spirits improved, too. Except for the inevitable reminders that each reunion brings of time's toll, this was a notably happy occasion. The sunshine felt good.

Ours is not a big reunion—between 46 and 60. That seems to be the fixed range, though it is easy to see how an attendance of well over 100 would be possible if everybody within easy distance would come the same year. But that, of course, never can happen.

There always will be other family reunions in conflict during the reunion month of August. There always will be somebody ill. There always will be families that will weigh the family reunion against something else and choose the latter.

Even in older times when families stayed closer together than they stay now, there were no insoluble ties. There is no strong tribal instinct that brings distant relatives together on a special sason of the year. A more carry-over custom than anything else—that and the fact, in our family, that my mother is still living, though she was a child of 5½ years when she attended the first reunion of her father's family in 1878. She has attended them for eight decades.

We talked about the things that no one had thought about in 1878—automobiles, electric power and illumination, anesthesia and sanitation, telephones, radio and television, atom-splitting, airplanes, central heating, packaging and distribution of food, antibiotics. . . . You could fill in as many more from your own list.

We laughed and teased about the amount of food on the table when it was time to sit down to dinner and then about the amount of food on the plates. We sat in the sun and reminisced, each according to the length of his memory.

We talked about current problems and the condition of corps, although what once was a family that ran strongly to farmers clearly reflects the national shift from agriculture to industry and services. Everybody who has been to a family reunion knows what we did and talked about. There's nothing new, is there?

It was almost dark when the last car left, and it was time to pile up the rented chairs and tables and call it another year. The decision had been made to hold another reunion in 1959 at the same place on the same date—the third Sunday of August. Everybody would try to come; that was the promise.

When anything goes on and on for 80 years, somebody must have been trying. In 1978, the family can call it a centennial!

Toward a National Health Foundation

It is possible that a national foundation for health will grow out of the decision of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to shorten its name to National Foundation and branch out into other fields, now that polio has been brought under control by Salk vaccine.

But even if that comes about eventually, it will be a struggle to get there because of the vested interests that have developed in voluntary association to combat specific diseases. The new National Foundation already has trespassed on one of these by naming rheumatism and arthritis as one of its new areas of interest.

But, ideally, there would be, one day, a truly national organization collecting and administering voluntary contributions in the endless battle against disease and defects. Its directors would be responsible for putting the organization's money to the best possible use, shifting emphasis from one program of research and treatment to another as circumstances changed.

In this way, all defects and diseases would be made targets of prevention and cure. Public support of specific programs would not be subject to the wild fluctuation that gave the Polio Foundation more money than it could use from year to year while a far more widespread menace to the health of children, rheumatic fever, was being ignored by the U.S. public.

We have no doubt that in the course of the evolution the same arguments will be used pro and con as are heard now in the issue about the United Fund method of giving once for all. Exactly the same principle is involved.

Those who believe contributors would get more results for their money if it were centrally collected and administered will be in conflict with those who believe contributors would get more satisfaction for themselves by supporting specific projects. It is an honest difference of opinion, and that is why the sparks fly whenever there is a clash.

Hammaraskjold on Way!

With an 80-0 U.N. General Assembly mandate to back him up, Dag Hammarskjold will go to the Middle East to get United States and British troops out of Lebanon and Jordan, in accordance with an Arab-proposed resolution.

Thus has the United States found a solution to a problem which looked insoluble from the moment it was created in mid-July by direct intervention in Lebanon and indirect intervention in the tangled politics of the Middle East.

Having committed itself with military intervention, Washington would have to find a way to break off its commitment without appearing to back down. It is ironic that the secretary general of the United Nations, who looked upon intervention as an error and was visibly displeased, now has the task of working out the procedure for undoing what he thought never should have been done.

Yet, there was a net gain for the Arab world in Western intervention. It shocked the West into awareness of the Arabs' desire for self-determination. And apparently it shocked Arab politicians who never had been able to agree with one another into awareness of the need for a common front if they wanted self-determination.

How long they can hold together in a common cause is doubtful. John Foster Dulles doubts it will be long, but his misgivings will stiffen their determination, because dislike of what he stands for in regard to their aspiration has become the Arabs' strongest common cause.

"Both boys had it rough," the missus admitted. "Whoever wins, the barefoot boy is out and the log-cabin becomes a late scratch."

THE SUMMER BEING as terrible as it was in most places, it would seem that while we failed in our shot to the moon, somebody shot the blazes out of the sun.

A TV presentation of "Ben Hur" has been dropped. Couldn't find eight horses not working in "westerns." If presented, would the chariots have been named "His" and "HUR'S"?

When Hall withdrew from the governorship race against Rockefeller he probably realized he would have trouble making the trip against super high test gas.

Jules Verne had the best break in getting a rocket to the moon. He knew paper and ink couldn't explode.

International Tel. & Tel. has a machine which can tell a boy from a girl. It was getting pretty hard but most folks would rather keep guessing.

Theater Guild produced a "western" recently. This shows that "Oklahoma" is one of those things which has its bad side. But it was like the Metropolitan Opera doing "Tobacco Road."

WE SALUTE WILLARD ROGERS, refusing in test case to pay toll on a Connecticut bridge, toll free for half a century. Bridge was paid for years ago with taxpayers money, but state recently slapped toll-booths on it just the same.

Toll-gate business is something of a state racket all over the country. Until the last few years there was a reasonable consideration for autoists but now tolls are being jacked up to absurd heights and toll-stations installed so close together a motorist seldom gets out of sight of one.

Connecticut is a bad example. On one stretch of new thruway there are three 25 cent toll stations covering a total distance of 23 miles.

Rogers will carry case to high courts in hope of an ultimate ruling that the autoist is not a legitimate target for harpooning.

The emphasis had been on dealing with the nations individually and giving them help individually.

What Eisenhower offers now is a broad, regional Mideast development organization to be run by the Arabs themselves with the money and technical help coming from interested countries, like the United States, and from private capital.

This would, if the President's words can be interpreted correctly, put the Arab-run organization outside the U. N.

Almost two years ago—on Dec. 20, 1956—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) suggested a regional, rather than individual country-by-country, development plan. But he differed from Eisenhower in suggesting it be handled through the U. N.

The idea, in various forms, has grown since then.

Humphrey laid out his idea after the Suez Canal crisis of 1956. That was when Britain, France and Israel attacked Egypt after Egyptian President Nasser's seizure of the canal that summer.

Nasser—perhaps during a temper tantrum—took the canal after Secretary of State Dulles suddenly and curtly canceled an American proposal to help Nasser build the Aswan dam on the Nile. Dulles offended Nasser by doubting Egypt's ability to pay back.

Since that time American difficulties with the Arabs have multiplied. Western influence in the area has dwindled shockingly. Nasser has increased his grip on the Mideast Arabs. Soviet influence among them has steadily grown.

So what Eisenhower offers now, besides its intention of trying to create peace and stability in the area, is obviously an attempt to keep a bad situation for the West from getting worse.

There is bound to be speculation now on what might have happened if Eisenhower had suggested a couple of years ago what he now proposes. That speculation now, for all practical purposes, is like water over the unbuilt Aswan dam.

Eisenhower made no specific

Washington's Move to Minneapolis Expected Soon

Griffith Won't Confirm Report

Club Has Spent 58 Seasons in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators, after 58 seasons in the capital, may ask permission soon to shift to Minneapolis.

Club President Calvin Griffith refuses to be pinned down.

Griffith denied Friday reports he already had decided to seek American League approval of a transfer.

But, to the relief of Minneapolis interests hoping to bag a major league franchise, Griffith added he hasn't made up his mind one way or the other.

Whether other American League club owners would tolerate a move out of Washington was still another question.

Several, including Tom Yawkey of Boston and Del Webb of New York, have declared the American League ought to remain in the capital for reasons of prestige. They also contend that despite skippy attendance in recent years Washington is a sound baseball city.

President Will Harridge of the American League said he had received no word from Griffith about a decision to move.

Minneapolis is considering expansion of its modern stadium to 41,000 capacity, almost double the present size. Ancient Griffith Stadium seats about 28,500 and is seldom filled.

Congress has authorized a new 40,000-seat arena for Washington, but Griffith dislikes the location and, as owner of his present quarters, is sensitive about becoming a tenant elsewhere.

The Griffith family has controlling stock interest in the team and now wields a clearcut majority in its board of directors.

Salem Polo Club Eying First Place

Salem Polo Club will seek to capture a share of first place in the Penn-Ohio Polo League at 3 p.m. Sunday when the local team plays host to the league leading Mahoning Valley club at the Ellsworth Rd. field.

Salem is taking a 12-4 record into the contest while Mahoning Valley has won 13 contests while losing only three. Salem lost to the club earlier in the season, dropping a 14-10 decision.

Lineups for the game will be: Mahoning Valley, Cruti Crum in No. one position; Eddie Roberts, No. 2; Jack Zedner, No. 3; and Stanley Strouss, No. 4, and Joe Bokak, alternate.

The local club's lineup will be the same as usual with Phil Thompson, Jimmy Baer, Lloyd Brunner and Jimmy Watson, starting, and Jack Arnold the alternates.

Mayor Harold Smith will open the contest by tossing out the first ball.

WOULD BUY TRIBE—A group of prominent Clevelanders headed by Bill Veck, left, one-time owner of the club will make an offer of $4,000,000 for the Cleveland Indians. The syndicate, which includes ex-star third baseman Al Rosen, will propose Robert Black, right, chairman of the board of White Motor Co., to serve as president of the new organization.

KC's Terry Hurls One-Hitter Against Nats; Yanks Top Sox

By The Associated Press
When it comes to pitching against Washington, Ralph Terry of the Kansas City A's is either very, very good, or very, very bad.

Since coming up with the New York Yankees in 1956, the 22-year-old right-hander has a 4-4 record against the Senators. He's blanked 'em in all four victories, and has failed to go the distance in all four defeats.

Terry was almost perfect against the Senators Friday night. He didn't walk a man and faced only 28 — one over the minimum — while giving up but one hit, a third-inning single by losing pitcher Russ Kemmerer, in 1-0 victory that hoisted the A's into a sixth place tie with Cleveland in the American League standings.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees ripped the Chicago White Sox 8-5 and regained a 12½ game lead. Boston closed within two games of the White Sox, defeating Cleveland 4-3. Baltimore grabbed fourth place from Detroit by beating the Tigers 2-1. Mickey Mantle, who hit his 36th home run in the first inning, doubled home the clincher in a four-run seventh for the Yankees. Elston Howard and Gil McDougald also homered for the champs, while Sherm Lollar reached his one-season high with his 17th homer for the Sox. Duke Maas (7-8) won it with two innings of hitless relief after Chicago tagged Johnny Kucks for two runs and a 4-3 lead in the sixth. Early Wynn (10-13), was the loser and now is 0-5 against New York for the year. It was Early's 200th loss in the majors. He's won 245, tops among active pitchers.

Ike Delock won his 12th for the Red Sox, giving up 10 hits, one Rocky Colavito's 29th home run. Frank Malzone hit his 12th homer for the Red Sox, then brought in the winning run with an eighth-inning double off Hoyt Wilhelm (2-7), who lost his sixth in a row. Gene Woodling's lead-off home run won it for the Orioles in the sixth against Jim Bunning (9-8).

Red Sox Edge Cleveland 4-3

Malzone Knocks In Two Boston Runs

BOSTON (P) — Cleveland's slumping Indians sent Cal McLish to the mound today in an attempt to end a three-game losing streak.

In their last 13 games, the Tribe has won only two.

Friday, Ike Delock posted his 12th victory of the year for the Boston Red Sox. He scattered 10 Indian hits and the Red Sox won 4-3.

Two of the four Red Sox runs were knocked in by Frank Malzone. The third baseman hit his 12th home run of the year in the fourth inning. He sent the winning run home in the eighth with a single.

Rocky Colavito gave the Indians some hope in the ninth when he homered. But Delock got the next three Indians on a grounder, a foul ball and a strike out.

Hoyt Wilhelm pitched all the way for Cleveland. He has now lost seven and won two.

Jackie Jensen got the Red Sox off to an early lead in the second when he doubled. Dick Gernert slammed a Wilhelm offering through the middle for a single, scoring Jensen.

The Indians bounced back in the third when Billy Moran singled through and Dick Brown raced home from second.

The Tribe took a 2-1 lead in the fourth, scoring a run on singles by Minnie Minoso, Colavito and Randy Jackson.

But Malzone opened the Red Sox fourth with his home run. Jim Piersall, on base by way of a fielder's choice, stole second and came home with Boston's third run.

Malzone rifled a single into center in the eighth to score Pete Runnels with the winning run. Runnels had doubled.

Colavito got his 29th homer of the year in the ninth, but the Indians failed to score after that.

HOW MEL ROACH TWISTED HIS KNEE—This is play at second base in second game of double header in Milwaukee in which Mel Roach, Milwaukee Braves second baseman, injured his knee. Slider is Daryl Spencer (20), San Francisco Giants, seeking to break up fifth inning double play setup. Roach's throw didn't complete double on Valmy Thomas, who had grounded to shortstop Johnny Logan.

Sam Jones Whiffs 14 As Cards Crush Phillies 9-1; Reds Win

By The Associated Press
Everything comes hard for Sad Sam Jones. Even when he wins. Take Friday night. The St. Louis Cardinals gave him some infrequent hitting support and he beat the Philadelphia Phillies 9-1 with a three-hitter.

Trouble is, it might have been Sad Sam's second major league no-hitter. He gave the Phils chills through seven innings. Then came the eighth. Ex-Card Rip Repulski lined a pinch-hit homer. Richie Ashburn doubled. Solly Hemus, another onetime Cardinal, singled.

Then Jones went back to work, fanning a pair to get out of the inning and adding another strikeout in the ninth for a total of 14. That's a night game record in the majors.

While the Cardinals were moving back into a fourth place tie with idle Los Angeles in the National League standings, also idle Milwaukee regained a seven-game lead as Cincinnati rapped second place San Francisco 7-3. Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs 8-2.

In the American League, the New York Yankees moved 12½ games ahead once more, taking their second in a row from the second. Boston defeated Cleveland 4-3, and place Chicago White Sox 8-5. Baltimore beat Detroit 2-1 and Kansas City defeated Washington 1-0 on Ralph Terry's one-hitter.

Sad Sam's 14 strikeouts also matched the one-game high in the majors this season. Detroit's Jim Bunning did it in the AL. Don Cardwell (2-2) lost it.

The Pirates won against Marcellino Solis (3-3). Rookie George Witt won his seventh with Vern Law's relief help.

IN PERFECT FORM: Leah Marie Atkins of Birmingham, Ala., the National Women's Champion in the slalom and trick events, works out for this year's National Water Ski Tournament Aug. 22-24 at Pine Mountain, Ga. Mrs. Atkins has consistently won national crowns for the last five years.

Browns Lose 17-7 to Lions

Little Leroy Bolden Shines for Cleveland

DETROIT (AP) — Little Leroy Bolden, the speedy halfback from Michigan State, may win the running halfback spot for the Cleveland Browns despite his size. He's only 5-foot-8 and 165 pounds.

Bolden was the one bright spot in Cleveland's 17-7 loss to the Detroit Lions in a National Football League exhibition contest before 36,662 Briggs Stadium fans here Friday night.

In the first half Bolden carried seven times for an even 100 yards. He added another 12 yards in the second half on five carries. His average of 9.3 yards a shot is nothing to sneeze at.

Cleveland rolled up 337 yards to 188 for the pro football champions. The big yardage for the Browns came in the first half when they marked up 254.

The Lions broke the game apart halfway through the third period with a pass interception and an 88-yard touchdown run by line-backer Bob Long. The Browns were trailing 10-7 at the time and had moved to Detroit's 15.

Then quarterback Milt Plum was rushed while attempting an aerial and Long picked off the errant toss and galloped down the field for the score.

Detroit scored first on Jim Martin's 42-yard field goal early in the opening period. The Browns drove 84 yards on Plum's passing and Bolden's running in seven plays for a 7-3 lead.

The score came on a nine-yard toss from Plum to end Pete Brewster. Lou Groze converted.

Just before the half, Detroit quarterback Bobby Layne directed a touchdown drive capped by John Henry Johnson's two-yard plunge. That made it 10-7 after Layne's conversion.

Class H All-Stars To Play on Sunday

An all-star team from the Class H Hot Stove League will play an all-star team from Leetonia Sunday at 3 p.m. at the north diamond at Memorial Park.

The Salem boys, between 8 and 11 years of age, are Richard Elliott, Howard Fowler, Bobby Rozeski, Mark Reader and Eddie Konnerth of Kresges; Chuckie Montgomery, Ronnie Whitehill, Gary Schuster and George Christofaris of Bloomberg's; Rodney Bentley, Dave Mowry and Mike Hary of Jaycees, E. Gross of Endres-Gross; Gary Keckel of Merchants Vending; Mike Unrue of Dairy Isle and Ronnie Royle of Home Furniture.

The following Sunday a Salem all-star team will journey to Leetonia for a game there.

A special invitational tournament for Class H teams is being planned by Salem officials.

Teams from Salem, Leetonia, Damascus and Homeworth have been invited to play. The games will be played in Salem next week.

The boys fall in the age group of eight to 10. Boys who reached their 10th birthday before Sept. 1 are not permitted to play.

Gil Turner Whips Redl In 10-Rounder

NEW YORK (AP)—Gil Turner had his first victory of the year today—a decision over Stefan Redl—and his manager already was hollering for a title shot with welterweight champion Virgil Akins.

"We'd draw a zillion in Philadelphia," said manager George Katz. "Remember, Gil is the last fighter to beat Akins. He did it easy in Atlantic City, Sept. 18, 1957."

That was the 27-year-old Turner's last victory until he whipped Redl by unanimous decision in their 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night. But win or lose, the ever-pressing Philadelphia contender gives the fans a good show.

"We'll use both Turner and Redl soon," said Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club. "They put on a good fight."

That it was from the opening bell, Redl, a superbly conditioned, 25-year-old from Passaic, N.J., pestered his sluggish rival through the first half of the brisk battle. Moving in and out and side to side, Redl scored with jabs and rights to the body and head.

A flash knockdown in the third round upset the German-reared Redl momentarily, but he kept buzzing around Turner until Gil's body banging finally wore him down.

The second half of the scrap, and especially the vital last two rounds were dominated by the heavier—151½ to 147—Turner.

It was the second defeat for Redl who has been fighting pro 28 months. He has won 20. Turner's record is 56-17-2.

Clark Wins Shooting Title At Vandalia

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—A Canadian held the Grand American Handicap trapshoot title today, but a heart-broken 16-year-old kid from Illinois is getting a lot of cheers too.

The new champion is 66-year-old Emerson Clark, a foundry superintendent from Preston, Ont., first to carry the crown across the Canadian border.

The kid is Robert V. Nolan of Lewistown, Ill., who posted the only perfect score in the record-breaking field of 2,214 and didn't win a thing.

The youngster broke 100 straight from 19 yards, and while being hailed as the winner of trapshooting's biggest classic, was ruled ineligible for the honor by Amateur Trapshooting Assn. officials.

The decision, announced by President Vic Reininders of Waukesha, Wis., disclosed that young Nolan had paid a $7.50 entry fee which entitled him to shoot for targets only. The total entry fee for those shooting for purses and the championship is $61.

With Nolan ousted from the top spot, Clark and Jim McCole, a 30-year-old game warden from Gering, Neb., moved into the lead with 99. In the shoot off, Clark emerged a 23-20 victor.

The 59th Grand American winds up today with the national doubles championship and the Vandalia handicap. Both count in the overall and all-around championships, based on the full week of shooting in which nearly a million and a quarter targets have been thrown.
